

Emily Fitchpatrick, President and Founder, On Eagles Wings Ministries

Emily's passion for hurting women stems from a background of drug and alcohol abuse. Her goal is to help other women overcome addictions, fears, anxieties and other emotional pains by showing them the love of God and teaching them how to receive freedom through a relationship with Jesus Christ. Emily's vision for a women's home was formed in 2002, but it was not until late 2007 that the vision grew into set of plans for The Hope House. After a trip to Bangkok, Thailand to minister to women trapped in prostitution and sex trafficking in January 2008, Emily knew that her life had been completely changed. Her knowledge of this form of modern day slavery lit a fire in her and she knew that the The Hope House was to be a home for domestic victims of sex trafficking and it was to be located in Western NC. The Hope House is for a place of safety and refuge... a place of healing, peace and restoration. Because of the serious lack of shelter for sex trafficking victims, Emily hopes to duplicate the Hope House model and establish more homes both here in the United States and internationally. On Eagles Wings Ministries also does strip club outreach on a regular basis and supports 3 other mission projects to help victims of trafficking.
